

CABERNET FRANC

Winemaking Notes

The 2019 growing season was unique in Washington as late winter weather left snow in the vineyard in February into March, delaying pruning and other vineyard work. This contributed to greater soil moisture, increased canopy growth and slightly delayed bud break and bloom. Overall, temperatures across the 2019 growing season were slightly above 20-year averages but were nowhere near as warm as the years that preceded it. A minor frost event at the end of September was followed by a series of larger, statewide frosts and freezes in early to mid-October. For some growers, especially for sites carrying higher tonnages, there was a large amount of fruit still on the vine. Although growers worked feverishly to bring it in, some fruit was left unpicked due to concerns about frost damage. As a result, tonnage was down from recent years.

Tasting Notes

The 2019 Cabernet Franc has aromas of rhubarb and sweet tobacco. There's a nice balance of currant and cedar flavors on the palate with leather on the finish.
